SIMMONS COLLEGE

300 The Fenway
Boston, Massachusetts
Volume 82

The black steel gates swing open and the sidewalk shines. The city is at our hands; Boston, a unique city. A city so diverse — education, commerce, culture and entertainment create an energetic atmosphere. Boston offers a rich environment where experience is learning. We open our doors to the vigor and bustle; museums, theaters, lectures, clubs, music. Great opportunities surround us, what we grasp depends on what we reach; we decide.

We at Simmons College take advantage of our resources, beyond the swinging campus gate. We extend; we reach to the outside community through volunteer work and integrate into the city's workforce through internships. Thanks to the single sex learning environment we stand up for ourselves, and thus stand out in the world. We each have individual skills and talents that complement the diversity of Boston. We distinguish ourselves by making that extra effort to challenge the mind, to strive for the better.

The classroom ignites our curiosity and strengthens our will. The students at Simmons College encourage each other, and work from each other's interests and motivation. We generate an atmosphere of respect and understanding; we have honor, thus we create a natural and supportive environment. We recognize the importance of each individual's contribution to the class and promote individual ideas, classroom discussion, and workshops.

WHe, as the individual women of Simmons College, create a diverse community. We have self confidence and career sense, yet we originate from all over the world. We develop ourselves by engaging in our changing environment. Our differences accent our self worth, and our value combines to make a common good; the unique Simmons College experience.

The Simmons College class of 1991 is ready to set out and make their mark on the world. The education they have received at Simmons has put them one step ahead of the rest, giving them the skills and confidence they need to succeed. This class distinguishes itself from the rest with its enthusiasm, optimism and concerns for the future.

A TRIBUTE TO

Quotes compiled by Jill Harmacinski

"I am afraid. We all are. We know what we have to do and how to do it. Just stand behind us."

-Jeannie Novak, 1989 graduate, sister of Dena Novak, 2nd Lt. Army

"War affects us all whether you know someone or not . . . if we give up on them they are going to give up on us."

-Nadine Beshere, graduate student

"We were outside at the time that the sirens went off. Only moments after that we heard the explosions and saw the flashes of light (almost directly overhead) where the SCUDs were intercepted by the Patriots. We felt the concussions of the blast and a few miles away at another base they received some shrapnel from the missiles. This war shit is no fun! You asked if I knew what we were doing over here. No I don't think that I do. I would like to believe that our sole intention is to get Kuwait back for its people but I'm a little more realistic than that."

-Marine Sgt. Steve Cavin, stationed in Bahrain, Saudi Arabia

"I would rather pay $2 a gallon (for gas) for the rest of my life and have him safe with me."

-Terri Smith, senior, girlfriend of Naval Officer Matthew MacLean

"I am standing behind my troops, my President and my flag."

-Kimberly Lyn Pressman, Editorial Editor Simmons News

"If I gotta go, then I gotta go. That's why I enlisted (to serve my country). If I am called to go, and I have to go to the Persian Gulf, then I'm ready to support what our soldiers are doing."

-Victor Wilcher, Simmons staff, US Navy Reservist

"It's scary . . . I don't think that any parent wants to see their child go to war. I know she has to go if she is called."

-Gretchen Abendschan, mother of sophomore Kari Abendschan, a US Army Reservist

"After returning home today, I found myself again listening to the news of the war and to the President's remarks at a reserve officers' banquet. At least a dozen times I heard the statement, 'My friends this will not be another Vietnam.' I couldn't help but saying to myself, 'Mr. President this seems a lot like another Vietnam.'"

-Charlotte Morocco, Dean of the College

THE TROOPS

"It's made people more aware of not only what's going on in the Middle East but with what's going on in the world."

-Lorraine Anastasio, sophomore class president

"It's made people think a lot more - it's people's friends and family . . . it's made people more aware."

-Lisa Rudzinsky, senior

"I think it's terribly upsetting that our troops are over there but I think we need to support our troops even if some of us don't always agree with all the policies that place them over there."

-Melissa Murrell, Economics Liaison treasurer

"I just think it made people a lot more aware. I don't think that anyone ever thought we'd go to war during our lifetime. It makes people realize what can happen and how much you take for granted."

-Sheryl Mason, junior, sister of 1st Lt. Patrick H. Mason, US Army

"I feel that my brother's deployment to Saudi Arabia has brought the conflict a lot closer to home for many people at Simmons. The war no longer becomes just another political headline, because every day that it continues it has the potential to affect me personally."

-Alicia Potter, senior, sister of Marine Cpl. Caleb Potter

"War - Does it decide who is right or who is wrong?"

-Susan Harper, SGA President

"I strongly believe in the purpose of Desert Storm . . . I am not 'Pro-War,' I do not like war at all. I pray for peace constantly."

-Dena Novak, senior, sister of Jeannie Novak, 2nd Lt. US Army

"I'm a pacifist and I'm against any course of violence. There is always an alternative. There is always a peaceful way to solve a problem."

-Katie Calhoun, founder of Simmons' Women Opposed to War.

The Microcosm staff would like to dedicate the 1991 yearbook to all the troops who bravely fought in this war, and their families and friends. We are all awaiting your safe return!

Best wishes

We love you all!

How many of you out there have ever wished your dorm room was just that much bigger, or your drawers and shelves could hold that much more? Or that the walls weren't so thin, and the bathroom not so far from your room? But through it all, the memories will not soon be forgotten. Sharing the trials and tribulations of college life with the other thirty or more women on your floor makes the college experience that much better, and it develops friendships that will last a lifetime.

Three amigos: Doesn't this look like a Colgate ad?!

And what do you find so amusing?

Even with the city at our doorstep, Simmons offers students a great deal of incentive to stay on-campus. The Activities Programming Board is responsible for most of the events that so many students attend. From afternoon movies to evening club nights, from lectures to balls, and from Fall Fest to Spring Spree, APB is the moving force behind it all. But let's not forget all the dorms that throw parties and mixers. It takes everyone to make Simmons a fun place to live and learn.

Who could forget Murph, the physical comedian who tantalized us all in Bartol?

Parents Weekend

On Friday, November 2, parents of Simmons students were invited to attend classes, lunch, and tea with their daughter. The evening began on the right note with a concert performed by "Sirens", Simmons' choral group. A welcome reception followed with refreshments and the opportunity to speak with faculty members.

Saturday offered swim time, aerobics classes, and a parents committee breakfast meeting. Following the State of the College Address were faculty forums and the chance to tour Boston for the afternoon. Parents and students then took part in a wild murder mystery entitled "Shear Madness" at the Charles Playhouse.

The weekend's events closed on Sunday with brunch at the home of the President and Mrs. William J. Holmes.

Mother daughter weekend

Mother Daughter weekend, held from November 30 to December 2, is a Simmons tradition for seniors and their mothers to get together and share some special moments with each other. Mothers were invited to join their daughters at receptions at the Trustman Art Gallery and Lafayette Hotel. They also spent time at the "Lazerium Zodiac" show and "Blue Planet" presentation at the Museum of Science. While squeezing in time to tour Boston, the pairs also delighted in seeing a beautiful performance of "The Nutcracker" at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

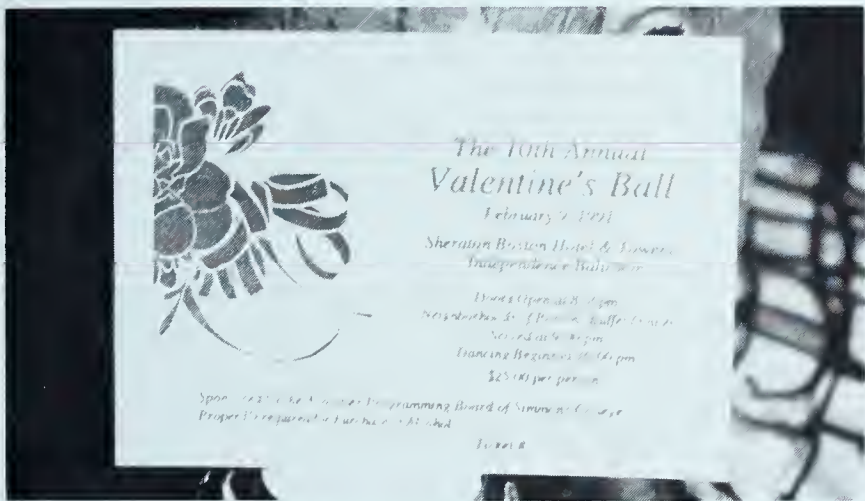

Winter Weekend

Winter Weekend was filled with exciting events and surprises. It began on Thursday, February 7th with a dinner hosted by the APB. The Monels, an Acappella singing group performed at Quadside that evening also. Alumnae Hall held "Club Night" with three comedians putting on their show. The 10th Annual Valentine's Ball took place at the Sheraton Hotel on Saturday night filled with balloons, dancing, and an unexpected engagement! Finally, on Sunday Bartol Hall was the scene for "Jazz Brunch."

Father Daughter Weekend

Father/Daughter Weekend was held from February 22 - 24 and was a chance for fathers of Simmons seniors and sophomores to have fun with their daughters. On Friday, fathers saw the serious side of their daughters while attending their classes. Watch out though! The annual Father/Daughter Ball was filled with laughter, smiles, and great dance steps! The weekend came to a close with a reception on Sunday at President Holmes' House.

There are many extra-curricular clubs and liaisons active within the Simmons community. For almost every interest a student may have, there is an organization for her. Through interaction with their peers and members of the faculty, students at Simmons have the opportunity to grow and learn outside the classroom environment.

Organizations

Each academic department here at Simmons has a liaison. Although each of these groups is uniquely different, they all serve as a link between the faculty and students. One of the most important functions of these liaisons is to record the information obtained from evaluations completed by students at the end of each semester. However, this is not where their involvement ends.

Liaisons actively support many other events as well. To raise money, many of the liaisons sponsor vendors and hold bakesales and they often invite guest speakers to give lectures to members of the Simmons Community and beyond. Additionally, they hold Open Houses which enable students to converse with faculty in a more informal setting.

Liaisons play a big role in students' lives here at Simmons by helping to maintain a personable atmosphere and providing valuable pools of knowledge for students from any major.

Eight School Records Set At New Englands

by Diane Tolan
Editorial Staff

The seven Simmons swimmers at the New Englands this weekend set eight school records as well as many personal records.

The swimmers competed against students from 30 other schools at Williams College.

Coach Ann McDermott was excited and pleased with the swimmers performance. She mentioned that the swimmers performances led to eight new school records.

"The swimmers did a tremendous job," said McDermott. "Out of 20 events they did some remarkable things."

McDermott also said she felt the highlight of the weekend was the fact that most of the swimmers set personal records and improved upon times. For instance the 800 yard freestyle team improved 40 seconds from a meet against Emerson two weeks ago.

Junior Cari Ragen had her fastest time on the 100 yard freestyle and came in 47 out of 58. Ragen also came in 41 out of 54 in the 100 yard butterfly, along with the 50 yard butterfly.

Ragen is pleased with the team's performance. "The team did really well," said Ragen. "There was a lot of team spirit."

Sophomore Diana Kaschub came in 17 out of 35 in one meter diving. Junior Kim Bergevin came in 25 out of 59 in the 100 yard breaststroke (She set also the fastest Simmons time for the 200 breaststroke).

For Freshman Erika Nelson, who swam in high school, this was her first New Englands competition. Nelson had her fastest score in the 500 yard backstroke as well as swimming in many other events.

"The New Englands gives a chance for us to see some top-notch teams," said Nelson. "The team was very supportive of each other; we all functioned well and stuck by each other. That's something you can do with a small group fairly easily."

Freshman Jacqui Chen came in 40 out of 52 in the 50-yard breaststroke.

Senior Sue Malinowski in her first and last New Englands came in 29 out of 32 in the one mile free style.

"The team did amazingly well," said Malinowski. "It's just you against the clock and we beat the clock."

Lindy Youngren had a personal best in the 500 yard freestyle, as well as swimming all the relay's.

"It was excellent experience," said Youngren. "All our hard work paid off. I'm really happy with my times and psyched for with how I finished my collegiate career."

Cross Country Runs In Regionals

by Rachel Wimberly
Staff Reporter

The Simmons College cross country team wrapped up its fall season on Saturday, November 10; placing 16th out of the 36 competing schools at the Division III Regionals.

Senior Dena Novak took 8th place; upholding her successful performance record this year, and qualifying herself for the Nationals which take place November 17.

"I was very pleased," said Novak about the outcome of the race. "I really wanted to make it to the Nationals. It's a nice way to end off my four years of running at Simmons," she said.

The team's coach, Eleonora Mendonca, also felt the meet went smoothly, and the team raced well. "I was really happy with everyone's race yesterday," said Mendonca, in an interview last Sunday.

According to Coach Mendonca, the Thunderbolts have shown a steady improvement since the meets began in mid-September. Included in this season's victories was their team's taking of third place in the MAIAW (Massachusetts Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women) State Championship in mid-October.

Team member Lauren Schlapak, a junior, said she believed that the Thunderbolts worked hard to succeed in this competition, but that they enjoyed the challenge.

"Everybody did really well in all of the races, and gave it their best effort. And, we just all had a lot of fun too," said Schlapak, who placed 24th in the meet. Gretchen Eastler came in 146th, and she agreed that her team's performance on Saturday was solid, and that despite the adverse weather conditions that day, the Thunderbolts still managed to perform well.

"It was really cold, wet, rainy, muddy, but I think it was a good race to end the season," she said.

Soccer Finishes Season Strong

by Rachel Gladstone
Contributing Reporter

The Simmons soccer team ended its season Saturday with a well-deserved win over Emerson College, 3-0.

The Thunderbolts surpassed last season's 3-10 record, and finished this season with a strong and much improved record of 8-8-3.

The sunny 75 degree Saturday was the perfect setting for the final game. With a large spectator turnout, the Thunderbolts got off to an early lead with a goal from a penalty shot by Senior Tri-Captain Katie Pillion.

"Everyone was so pumped up for this game, there was no way we were going to lose," said Senior Tri-Captain Laurie Garvin.

The second half included two more goals by Sophomores Dana Spangler and Rachel Gladstone.

"The encouragement from the fans and from within the team itself really made us play together, and with a deep sense of determination," said Junior Beth Fioretti.

The win over Emerson marked the fourth win in the last five games of the season.

This year's team is losing seven players to graduation.

"I'm really sad it's over, but ending on such an upbeat note made it worth it," said Senior Alicia Eliscu.

First year Coach Suzanne Kaplan, who led the team through daily practices three games a week, is quite proud of the team's accomplishments and improved record.

The team had tough games this semester against Southern Massachusetts University, Bridgewater State, and Framingham State.

"The team really pulled together towards the end of the season," said Kaplan.

"Everyone became more in tune with each other's playing styles and we surprised quite a few unsuspecting teams," Senior Kelly Olone agreed.

"The team has improved one hundred percent over last year," said Olone. The coach was excellent and she really got the team to work well together."

With the loss of so many seniors this year, next year will be a rebuilding season.

"We will have to work extra hard next year to improve on such a great record," said Sophomore Jenn Mason. "But we will do it and have fun at the same time."

Basketball Finishes Successful Season

by Diane Tolan
Editorial Staff

The basketball team has ended the season with their most successful record since the program began six years ago.

"Our records don't indicate our strength," said Coach Ali Kantor of the 7-13 record. "We reached a new level in our program."

What Kantor and the rest of the team consistently point out is that even though they lost this year to teams such as MIT, Babson, and Brandeis, Simmons was only behind 10 to 15 points.

Kantor is quick to point out the strengths of the team, especially in non-athletic abilities. She uses "highly motivated, hard workers and character" to describe the team. She also thinks the team has strong leadership abilities.

"We have leaders who set examples," said Kantor.

"Munsen and Zanghetti stayed with the program," said Kantor. "It's a big attribute to them. Those two have worked hard to improve their game and stayed with it."

"I think our record is no indication of our ability," said Zanghetti who played guard this semester. "Elaine (Munsen) and I can't believe the difference from freshmen year. Now we play well against teams we used to lose to by 40 points. I really think our reputation is changing with coaches from other schools."

Zanghetti thinks one reason the team is improving is that more players are coming onto the team with solid high school experience.

"I think that makes a big difference," said Zanghetti.

Sophomore Dana Spangler was also satisfied with the season.

"We had a lot of fun and worked hard," said Spangler who played a forward position.

Spangler had a challenge this year as she was playing a new position.

"I'm very pleased with how I played," she said. "I played a new position and it was difficult to make the adjustment at first."

Freshman Heather Ross is also excited with how her first season turned out.

"It was pretty fun and we had the most successful season on record," said Ross.

"Our strengths were definitely our quickness," observed Ross. "We lacked in size but we were very quick and able to run well."

CREW

The 1990-91 Simmon's crew team began the season by welcoming two new coaches- varsity coach Liz Lambert and novice coach Mara Keggi. Liz and Mara brought a new enthusiasm to our young team. Our reaction was of determination, dedication, and most of all, appreciation.

Waking each day before the sun, the team faced the challenge of another practice. No matter what the weather condition their dedication showed, knowing that this could only strengthen them. Discipline has pushed them to work as a team, as well as individuals, striving to achieve a common goal.

The crew team rowed hard through the fall racing season rowing in the Textile Regatta, Mount Holyoke Invitational, the Head of the Charles, M.I.T. Invitational, and the Foot of the Charles. They will continue to build during their winter training, looking forward to starting a strong spring season.

Cross country is a sport that requires a specific type of athlete, willing to sacrifice their time in order to log the miles required to be a successful runner. A good deal of strength, speed, and stamina is needed in order to compete in the 3.1 mile races. Training for these races include workouts in a variety of settings: hills, track, pool, weight room, and long roads . . . It is a sport that demands total mental and physical concentration.

Dena Novak, top runner on the women's cross country team at Simmons, was the state champion for the 1990 cross country season. She is truly a model athlete — balanced in both academics and athletics.

The field hockey team began its season with a series of very close and frustrating games, progressing to many successful and exciting matches. Sticking together through the season was a reflection of the athletic ability, team work, and friendship of each and every player. Seniors graduating this year are Michelle Goyette, Tara Carey, Amy Sheela, and Resa Tolin. With a large number of underclasswomen returning next fall, Simmons Field Hockey will be a strong and experienced team that will look forward to a winning season.

Sailing

Small but determined
Oh, yes indeed
That is how the Simmons Sailing team
Does plead.

We raced regattas
At M.I.T., Tufts, B.U. and Yale
Our competition was stiff
But still we did sail.

Heavy air, light air
Everything in between
We hung in there
When things got mean.

Our coaches are patient
John and Bruce are just great.
Always quick with a joke
If we cross the finish line late.

With their support, and
Our ambition we can't go wrong.
In the spring
We will sing a victory song.

When we win that first big Regatta you know who will buy the beer.

Bruce you'll have to wear
That Burger King hat for a year!

The faculty and administration at Simmons College consists of a dedicated and knowledgeable group of men and women committed to the learning that goes on here at Simmons. With a relatively small student - teacher ratio, more time is devoted to the individual student and her particular needs. This allows the individual to grow and prosper in the learning environment, and give her that extra something that will make all the difference in her success.

Faculty

To the Class of 1991:

At your freshman banquet you were challenged by a member of the faculty to examine yourself, your goals and beliefs; at the Senior-Faculty dinner you were congratulated upon your impending graduation and your movement on into the world beyond Simmons. How much, during those four years did you remain "all the same," how much "but different?"

This year that question is especially important, because this year the future of women's colleges has been called into question as seldom before. How do we help our students to learn and mature? Are we more successful with our students than co-educational institutions? We believe so, and especially after our all-college response to Mills' decision we know that the largest number of people associated with Simmons believe so.

But you, finally, are our test. What you do with yourself and your life will reflect back on this college and help us decide whether we have all chosen the correct path. A much greater proportion of women's college graduates are to be found in Congress, in Who's Who in American Women, on the boards of major American corporations than women graduates or co-ed schools. What will be your measure of success? To the extent that you determine it and reach it, you, too, will join that large group of successful graduates of women's colleges and do us proud.

I wish you well in your quest.

Dear Members of the Class of 1991,

It is a pleasure to write you one last letter and to be among the many to wish you the best of success with your plans for the future. It seems that your time at Simmons has been so short yet in these few years you and the College have gone through many exciting times and a tremendous period of growth.

As I think of all the contributions you individually and collectively have made to the College, the one that stands out in my mind is your open celebration and joy of Simmons as a woman's college. During my tenure here we have expressed publicly our pride in the history and mission of the College, the quality of our educational programs and our respect for those who teach, the expansion and beauty of our physical facilities, and the success of our students and alumnae. But until you came along, we collectively never seemed to have had the courage to express that same enthusiasm for one of the most unique aspects of our educational mission—that we are a woman's college.

This one contribution may well insure the College's future and define its curriculum and co-curriculum for years to come. You have challenged us to recognize that we are richer in spirit than we ever acknowledged and that our voices have impact of quality on the lives of many people and institutions. You have given us a tremendous gift and I for one am grateful.

As you leave these not so very ivy covered walls, be well and do good things. And please remember to look back to be sure that your legacy is fulfilling your expectations and dreams.

My best wishes for a life of love, laughter, and adventure.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Morocco
Dean of the College

Some might argue that colleges are all the same in respect to campus activities, but here at Simmons, we strive to be just a bit different. With the entire city of Boston at our fingertips, finding something to do should not be a terrible problem at Simmons. There is something for everyone — from the history buff to the art lover, from the sports fan to the party goer. There's never a dull moment! Ahh — the advantages of city life!

Star Market is a very familiar landmark for all Simmons students.

Alev Volkar takes in a Red Sox Game.

A stroll along the Charles River is always a nice way to spend the afternoon.

City Life

BOSTON LIFE

Simmons College is located in the best city, so if you're not studying, there are plenty of things to do. If you're not cheering for the Red Sox at Fenway Park, you could be shopping at Filenes, listening to a street performer at Harvard Square or walking to MIT for an infamous Fraternity party. Eating in Boston can be fun if you know the right places to go to. If you've already eaten pizza at Bos Deli, UNO's, or Pizza Romano there's a lot of other places to choose from. Fanueil Hall, Kenmore Square or Copley Plaza has much to choose from along with the numerous amount of shops in each Square. Of course there's Newbury Street for the elite shopper. Comedy clubs, discos, food clothing stores - the best is here. Simmons is located among many other schools including Northeastern University, Harvard and Boston University. But if you need to see it all in one sitting, just climb the Prudential building and have a look.

The corner of Pilgrim and Brookline where Simmons residence campus is located.

Harvard Square has a huge newspaper stand where you can find your hometown paper.

Catch a Rising Star brings out comedians at their best.

The greatest pizza and more found at Pizzeria UNO in Kenmore Square.

An overlook of a Sox game from the bleachers.

Filene's - near the common - is a great place to shop.

An infamous 'T' sign to find transportation anywhere.

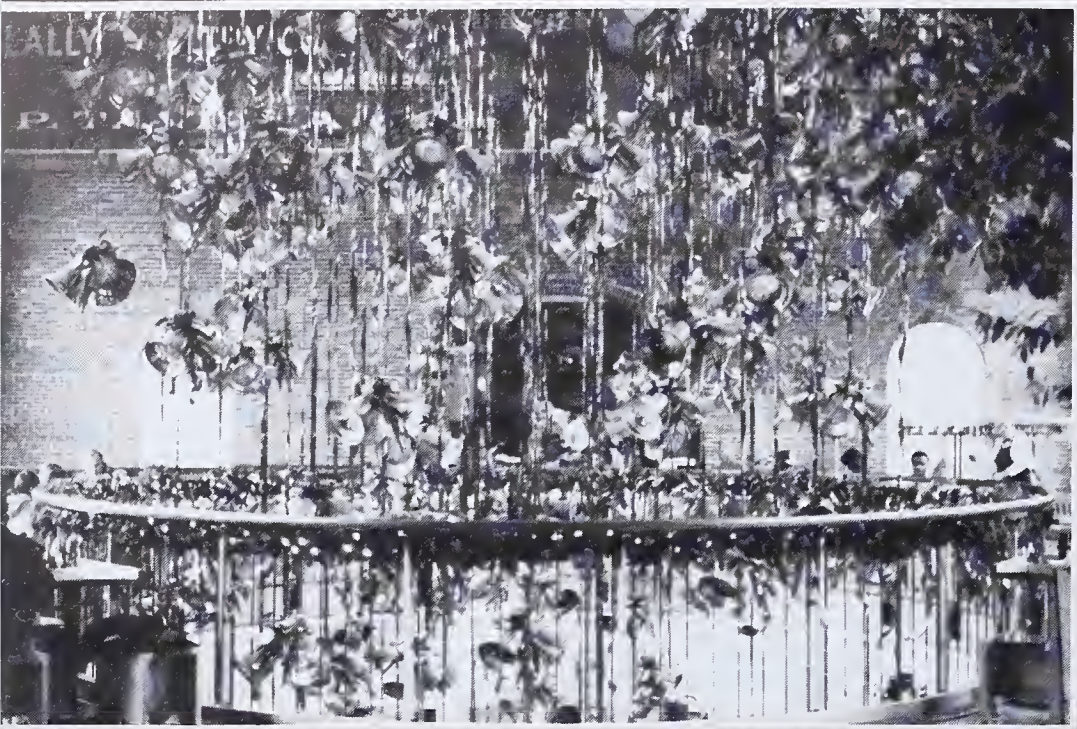

Boston Billiards up the street from Simmons - a great place to play pool.

A look at the Boston Commons.

Lost? Just look for the famous Citgo Sign.

SPRING SPREE

APRIL

Aloha Boston! This year's Spring Spree was a wild Fantasy Island Weekend. We ate tropical fruit, danced on the quad, listened to steel drum music in Bartol, and had a night at the movies right on the quad! Quadside hosted "One People" and we relaxed on Saturday with music from "Wildest Dreams" and the "Berklee Jazz Band."

On Sunday, the 15th Annual Mr. Simmons Contest was held to benefit the Somerville Homeless Shelter Coalition. Contestants represented The Simmons News, Mesick Hall, Arnold Hall, Morse Hall, Dix Hall, J. Board, and South Hall. Each demonstrated his charade ability, showed his creativity in answering questions, revealed his hidden talents, and modeled his best summer outfit. And the winner is...Mr. Simmons News!

Mr. Simmons News Eric Portman was named this year's Mr. Simmons winner.

MAY 19, 1991

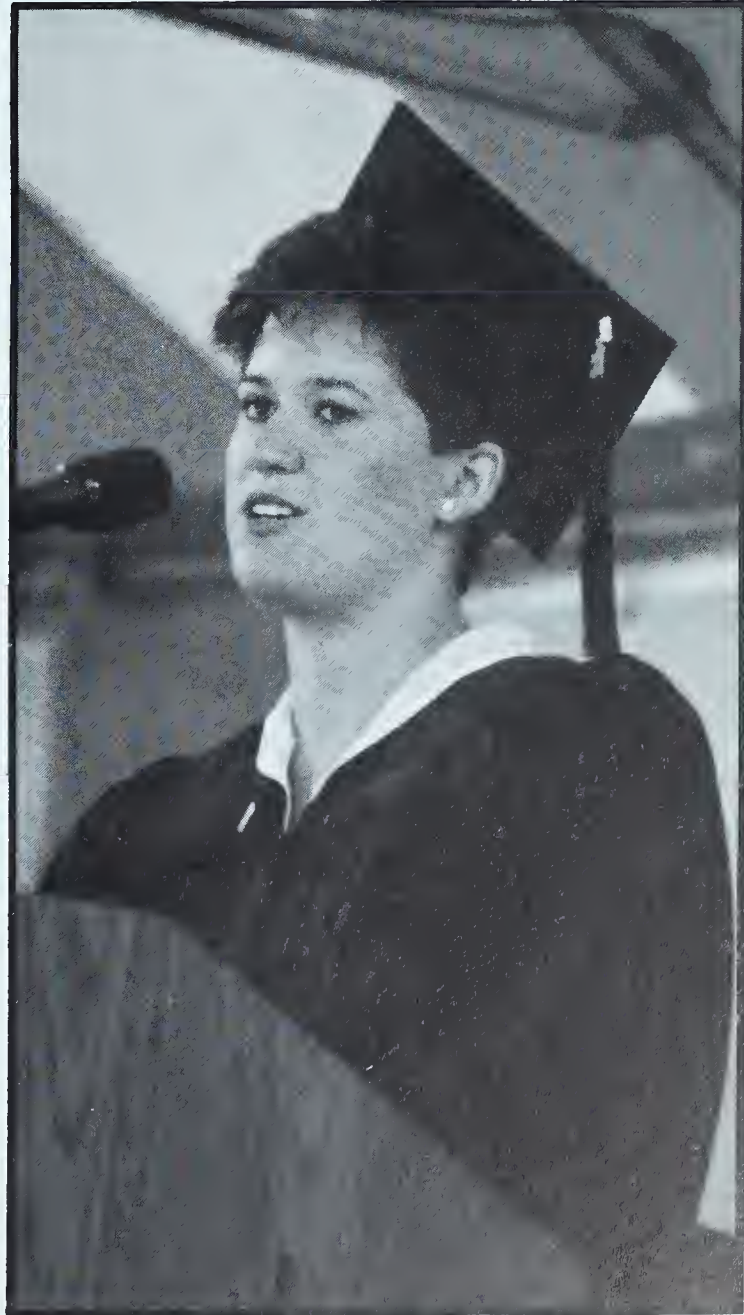

The Eighty-Sixth Commencement was a beautiful one to remember. The sun was shining, students were grinning with joy, and parents were glowing with pride. Music by the Boston Brass Ensemble filled the air and set the atmosphere for the long procession of proud graduates. The day's ceremony began with an invocation by Ernest E. Monrad, followed by Marian Edelman's Address, and Sean Gorham's Remarks. Audra Ruth Garling was chosen to represent the Class of 1991 and the awarding of degrees followed. Congratulations to all!

Marian Wright Edelman, President and Founder of the Children's Defense Fund delivers her address and is later awarded Doctor of Human Service.
